

TEUTON ALLIES FALL BACK IN THE EAST

British Sweep On In Ancre District, Germans Renew Attack On Somme

ITALIANS ADVANCING

Casement Appeal Denied; Only King Can Save Irish Leader From Death

LONDON, July 18.—A Petrograd despatch to the London Telegraph states that a general retreat of the Austro-German forces on the eastern front has commenced.

The Germans and Austro-Hungarians are laying waste the country and burning villages as they fall back.

Ovillers, in France, has been cleared of the last remnants of its German garrison, but in front of the village the Germans fought stubbornly.

The advance of the British in that district which lies north of the Ancre, gives them control of a further section of the important Albert-Bapaume highway.

Ovillers lies on the northern side of the salient which the allies have thrust into the German line and strong pressure had been exerted there to push back the Germans and thus straighten out the English front.

There have been severe bombardments on the Somme front.

ROME, July 18.—Italian forces on the northern slopes of Monte Panbio are driving the Austro-Hungarians back across the border into Austria.

The Italian war office announced today that the Italian forces in this region have resumed their advance. Furious fighting has developed in the Posina-Astico area, where the Austro-Hungarians have attempted by severe counter attacks to check the progress of the Italians.

PARIS, July 18.—Heavily reinforced, the Germans have taken the offensive south of the Somme.

The war office in its official communique today stated that the Germans have delivered many assaults between Blaches and Malsonette, but that practically all were repulsed and that the battle still is raging there.

VIENNA, via Berlin, wireless, July 18.—Attempts of the Russians to advance against the Austro-Hungarians in southwestern Bukovina, have been checked, says an official report made public by the war office today. The statement admits the retirement of Teuton forces southwest of Luck, stating that it was made necessary by the numerical superiority of the Russian troops.

CASEMENT APPEAL DENIED.

Only King Can Now Save Former Irish Leader From Hanging.

LONDON, July 18.—The appeal of Sir Roger Casement from his conviction on the charge of high treason was dismissed in the criminal court of appeals today. Casement must die unless King George intervenes in his behalf.

Arguments in behalf of the appellant were concluded this morning by Alexander Sullivan, K. G., chief of counsel for Casement.

A strong appeal was made for the convicted man, Mr. Sullivan citing many quotations from the ancient law to sustain his contentions.

The chief points advanced by the counsel were not taken by the court and when the argument was in the court lost little time in handing down its decision.

Justice Darling presided and with him sat Justices Bray, Scrutton, Lawrence and Atkin.

When proceedings were resumed the court-room was crowded, the spectators listening with the deepest interest to the learned address of Casement's counsel.

In the continuation of his speech Casement argued that the offense charged under the statute under which the indictment was drawn could not exist because it was committed outside of the realm of the king's domain.

Mr. Sullivan concluded his address.

SCORE DOWN, 20 MILLIONS LOST IN PROPERTY

Sun Shines on the Atlantic Coast and Floods Are Subsiding.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 18.—Rain fell for several hours today in the mountain districts, further swelling the raging rivers which with their flood waters have drowned a score of persons, caused nearly $20,000,000 damage and made thousands homeless, but bright sunshine succeeded the rain and a steady recession of the flood is expected.

Several bodies that had been washed down during the night were found on the lowlands today. Among them were two children, a boy and a girl, clasped in each other's arms. There was nothing to identify the little ones.

Several of the large plants which had to close down yesterday owing to the flooding of their power stations resumed operations this forenoon. It is expected that by Thursday morning all factories will be running under normal conditions.

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 18.—The latest dispatches from the flood-swept districts of the Carolinas and Lower Virginia report a total of 16 dead, at least 12 missing and enormous property damage. The waters are receding except in the extreme southeastern portions of South Carolina, but wire communication and railroad traffic continue at a standstill in many districts.

North Carolina was the hardest hit, 11 of the deaths and two-thirds of the property damage occurring in that state. Asheville, where the most damage was wrought, estimated property loss around $10,000,000. Twenty-five manufacturing and industrial plants in that vicinity were destroyed.

Armies of men are at work repairing the damage to railroads, but it will be a week or ten days before conditions assume anything like normal.

Trains from the northeast are hours late. A report from Charlotte states that ten of the twenty men thrown into the Catawba river when the Southern railway bridge collapsed have been rescued but the fate of the others is not known.

UTILITIES BOARD WOULD FIX RATES

COLUMBUS, O., July 18.—Testimony which will enable the state utilities commission to fix rates before authorizing the Central District Telephone Company, the Bell interests, to purchase the five independent telephone lines in southeastern Ohio was submitted today. The Bell people proposed to buy the property of the Washington, Jefferson, Belmont, Union and Woodfield Telephone Companies. The commission has fixed the valuation of these independent properties at $1,279,313. These companies have seven thousand instruments in use in Washington, Belmont, Jefferson and Monroe counties.

98,000 Militia Now On Border Or Coming; Villa Reported Active

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 18.—Ninety-eight thousand state troops are on the border or on trains bound for there. These official figures were issued today. These militia forces come from 38 states, according to General Funston, only ten states not being thus far represented.

Among the states which have sent no troops are Ohio, Alabama, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi, Florida, North Dakota, South Dakota and Oklahoma. Owing to the war department's order that the present force mobilized is sufficient and that no more incomplete units should be sent, General Funston said it was possible that the missing states would not be represented.

Ohio, with one of the strongest and best equipped units, failed to report "ready," it was stated at Ft. Sam Houston, because of having no sanitary place for mobilization. The southern states and the Dakotas failed to respond because their regiments were incomplete and unequipped, Tennessee having no shoes, and Alabama insufficient uniforms.

The state troops are encamped at San Antonio, Brownsville, Pharr, Laredo, Del Rio, Marathon, Eagle Pass, Presidio, Marfa and El Paso in the state of Texas, at Columbus, New Mexico, and Douglas, Arizona. Small detachments are also located at intermediate points.

For military reasons, General Funston stated it was impossible to give the numerical distribution at the various bases.

VILLA REPORTED EVERYWHERE

Pershing's Force Seems Likely to Remain in Mexico.

EL PASO, Texas, July 18.—Pancho Villa's advance guard is riding on a rail north of Chihuahua City today and less than 150 miles from the American border.

According to information a great band of Villistas is gathering at Tinajas and Las Escobas, ready to make a swift descent on Ojinaga. Before this it was known that a large Villa force was at Las Mulas Pass awaiting reinforcements before marching to the border. From the neighborhood of Boquillas on the border in the Big Bend country comes a despatch stating that one force of Villistas already has attacked and wiped out a Carranza garrison within 20 miles of the international boundary line.

Captain Thomas B. Anderson and a company of the twelfth Michigan Infantry are on duty at that point and reinforcements are ready to rush by motor truck from Marathon to the support of the patrol.

The positions of his advance bands places Villa in the unique military situation of having part of his forces behind the enemy's line and in condition to attack him on all sides at once. The progress of Villa has completely upset the state of Chihuahua and whatever semblance of law and order was held under the rifles of the Carranzistas is melting away before the heat of Villa's advance.

There is still much doubt about the withdrawal of the Pershing expedition. Perhaps the best taken that it will remain indefinitely in Mexico is shown in the fact that two regimental bands were sent in through Columbus to supply music to the soldiers.

Michigan militiamen at Camp Cotton in El Paso were thrilled in the early hours today by a series of rifle shots and the report of Private Frank O'Neill on outpost duty, that he had been shot at by snipers.

O'Neill replied to the sniping vigorously. The thirty-second Michigan, delayed in transit was expected to reach El Paso during the day.

State guardsmen from South Carolina also were overdue on the border. Two troop trains crowded with regular soldiers arrived here and the appearance of fresh regular troops aroused a good deal of interest. Military authorities censored any information regarding the destination of the new troops or their intended posts.

The border in the direction of Arizona and New Mexico supplies its daily thrills. Chief among the reports from that source is the information that the renegade Yaqui Indians are on the warpath and sweeping the Yaqui valley with destruction. General Elias Calles, commander of Sonora, announced today that he would personally lead Yaqui uprisings.

From Douglas comes the report that the Mexican side is aroused over the shooting of a Mexican by an American sentry.

7 DEAD IN POLICE BATTLE WITH PAIR

Desperate Negroes Only Slain After Barricaded House Dynamited

FIVE ARE WOUNDED

Hundreds of Shots Fired In Early Morning Fight On Chicago's West Side

CHICAGO, July 18.—Seven persons are dead and five wounded as the result of a pitched battle between 150 policemen and a negro and his wife, barricaded in a house on the West Side today. The battle was ended only when the police dynamited the flat building in which the negroes were quartered, after hundreds of shots had been fired.

INFANTILE PLAQUE INCREASES DAILY IN NEW YORK CITY

New Cases Grow When Crisis of Epidemic is Thought Past.

More Drastic Measures to Quarantine All Cases of Disease.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Infantile paralysis showed a sudden and marked increase today in figures issued by the health department, proving unfounded the hope that the crisis of the epidemic had been passed.

One hundred and twenty-one new cases and 26 deaths were announced as compared with 95 cases and 14 deaths yesterday.

The deaths that have occurred in the epidemic now number 426 and the cases total 2,175.

As has been the case previously, Brooklyn reported the greatest ravages by the disease, 18 deaths and 83 cases being in that borough.

Discovery that quarantine restrictions affecting families where there are children with infantile paralysis, have been broken in many instances has led the authorities to adopt more drastic measures in fighting the plague. When the epidemic began here the health department permitted children to remain in their own homes, provided they were kept in one room and attended by a trained nurse. Now the authorities are urging parents to send the afflicted children to hospital.

This is believed to be due to complaints that whole neighborhoods have been endangered by careless disregard of the regulations. Previously the police department has been powerless to act, but patrolmen are now being given authority to enforce the rules.

BOSTON, Mass., July 18.—Nine additional cases of infantile paralysis, one of which was fatal, were reported today to the state board of health, bringing the total number of cases to 35.

KILLS GIRL'S FATHER, THEN SHOTS SELF

FREEHOLD, N. J., July 18.—Because he had been forbidden to court 15-year-old Florence Hopkins, John Solax today shot the girl's father to death, wounded her mother and 8-year-old sister, and then committed suicide. Solax was an Armenian and 17 years old. He apparently had determined to destroy the entire Hopkins family, as he was armed with an automatic pistol and a sharp butcher knife. In his pocket were found 91 cartridges.

The dead are:
BOB MCINTOSH.
MRS. MCINTOSH.
POLICEMAN STEWARD DEAN.
MRS. JOSEPHINE OVERMEYER.
EDWARD KNOX, colored.

TWO UNIDENTIFIED MEN, who fell on the porch of the McIntosh home when they attempted to enter the house and whose bodies could not be taken away before the house was dynamited.

The wounded: Policeman Edward Clemens, Mrs. Edward Knox, Policeman Appleton, Policeman Crabtree, Policeman Lavin.

It was shortly after 6 o'clock this morning when Edward Knox, who lives next door, heard firing and stepped out of his house. He dropped instantly and Mrs. Knox went over to see what had happened. She was wounded and the police were unable to get to her assistance until after the house had been blown up.

The police then appeared and the minute they showed up McIntosh opened fire. It is presumed that his wife also assisted him in repelling the police, for she as well as McIntosh wore a belt full of cartridges.

Police Captain Wesley Westbrook, in charge of the details, called for reinforcements with rifles, and hundreds of shots were fired into the house. There came a lull in the firing from the beleaguered pair, and a charge was ordered. Policeman Dean was shot as the police gained the door and Crabtree was shot through the arm and neck as he carried Dean's body away.

It was then that Captain Westbrook decided to dynamite the house. A can of gasoline was fired in front to attract the attention of the defenders and six sticks of dynamite were exploded at the rear. This tore down part of the building and then two more charges were set off in rapid succession. They completely demolished the building. McIntosh had not been killed in the explosion and poked his head above a bit of ruins long enough to permit Policeman Hughes to shoot him several times, death resulting soon after. In the ruins of the house the police found a large sized picture of Villa.

The shooting resulted from a feud between McIntosh and wife and the white wife of John Bedford next door. Mrs. Bedford's husband next Tuesday sought a warrant for McIntosh's arrest, following a quarrel. Mrs. Bedford says the minute she stepped out of the house this morning, Mrs. McIntosh fired at her through a crack in the fence. It was this firing that brought Knox out of his house.

After the morning's battle was over, the police found a rambling, but well written note left by McIntosh, citing Bible quotations, and declaring he had been designated as the savior of the Africans in America.

RESCUED FROM MOB.

Police Called to Drive Section Men Bent on Killing Foreman.

CLEVELAND, O., July 18.—Attacked by an angry mob led by a disgruntled employee, John Fenwick, section foreman on the Newburg and South Shore railroad five miles south of the city this morning barricaded himself in a shack and held the crowd at bay with a revolver until the arrival of police.

The police rushed to Fenwick's rescue in a commandeer switch engine. They found Fenwick in the shack surrounded by a group of menacing men, armed with picks and shovels.

One of the men, the leader, Nick Angatos, 35, had been wounded in the arm by Fenwick. His injuries are not serious and he is being detained by the police pending further investigation.

According to Fenwick he discharged Angatos. Angatos demanded he be re-employed, and when this was refused the gang rushed at Fenwick.

Petition For Election On Phone Acquisition to Be Circulated Soon

pany. It may be that the technicalities of the law will be better known and overights of various provisions less probable.

About 700 signatures are required by law before the ordinance may be placed upon the ballot. The signatures bind the signers to support the bill, that term indicating a vote but not necessarily extraordinarily oral support. The primary law permits a petition signer to vote against a candidate whose papers he has signed, but in the case of an initiative and referendum petition the signer is supposed to back the movement for the reason that he hopes to see it go through.

The same corrupt practices' acts are applicable to an I. and R. election as obtain in a general election or primary.

PETIT THIEVES ARE ARRESTED

A series of petit larceny jobs were solved last night when four lads ranging in age from 11 to 14 years were placed under arrest. They are Vernia Kramer, James Adams, Carl Stumbaugh and Harry Long.

According to police who made the arrests the boys confessed to the parts they took in the robberies. It is believed that a number of other jobs that have been perpetrated within the last month can be associated with them.

Officers claim that Stumbaugh stole a child's bank from a south side home. It is alleged that Long mad away with a bicycle from the Tisot grocery on the corner of St. Johns and Second streets.

The theft of a $15 coat and $9 in money from the Erie Coal company is charged against the quartet. All of the lads will be given a hearing in juvenile court today.

K. C.'S TO GIVE MUSICAL WEDNESDAY EVENING

There will be a musical of much note given Wednesday evening, July 19th, in the Knights of Columbus hall in the Holland block at 9 o'clock under the auspices of the Rev. James Albert, S. J., and Professor Hardy of St. Augustine, Florida. The program will consist of both vocal and instrumental numbers with readings in the different dialects which are very entertaining. Both are typical returners and all who avail themselves of this opportunity to hear them will be well repaid. No admission to the hall and all are cordially invited.

NEW HOSPITAL HEAD.

COLUMBUS, July 18.—Dr. William H. Pritchard, recently of Gallipoli, today was on duty as new superintendent of the Columbus state hospital. He succeeds Dr. Charles F. Gilliam, of this city, who was killed in an automobile accident here last April.

POSSIBLE RENEWAL OF SUBMARINE WAR CAUSE FOR ALARM

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Repeated unofficial reports that Germany may soon resume its submarine campaign against enemy merchantmen in an unrestricted manner have so alarmed state department officials that they have asked Ambassador Gerard at Berlin for a report.

It was made plain at the state department today that no inquiries were made of the German government. Gerard simply has been requested in an informal manner, it was stated, to forward to Washington any information he can obtain concerning the rumors.

The belief is most generally held in official circles here that the reports are erroneous. All information reaching the state department through official channels, it was said today, has confirmed previous reports that the advocates of a relentless submarine warfare are in a hopeless minority. The Kaiser is understood to stand firmly against a renewal of the U-boat campaign.

It was pointed out today, however, by officials who are closely following developments in Germany that the recent setbacks that Germany has suffered on land may swing the popular sentiment over to a demand for a renewal of submarine warfare. If such a demand became strong enough, officials here believe, the German officials now opposing such a plan would withdraw their opposition.

The British refusal to permit Red Cross supplies to enter Germany even under the supervision of a neutral commission to see that they were not used for military purposes, will be another weapon in the hands of the Von Tirpitz policy, it was declared. This refusal will be pointed to in Germany as showing that England is determined to starve Germany at any cost and that it will be only an act of retaliation if Germany renews her submarine campaign.

INJURED IN AUTO CRASH; NOW MOTHER

Mrs. Grover Williams, who was seriously injured on Saturday evening in an automobile wreck at Leipsic, where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sheidler were instantly killed and her husband received injuries which resulted in his death on Sunday morning, gave birth yesterday to a child. The little one is healthy and bids fair to live, although of but seven months' conception.

It is believed Mrs. Williams will recover, although she suffered amputation of an arm and limb.

NEW PROCEDURE IN ALLENTOWN ROAD CASE

The board of Allen county commissioners will proceed in a different manner for the construction of the Allentown road than in most cases. This is one of the roads which come under the new law adopted in September of last year. Property owners along the construction will be advised of the amount of money they will be compelled to pay. They may then file objections and pleas for damages, which will be heard before the contract is let. Commissioner James L. Heath said today the same course is pursued as in a ditch hearing. This method applies to this one road only.

SULZER AND HANLY PROHIB FAVORITES

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 18.—The prohibition presidential situation apparently has simmered down today to a contest between William Sulzer of New York, and J. Frank Hanley of Indiana, both former governors of their respective states. That, barring eleven hour surprises, one of these two recent acquisitions to the dry party, will head the national ticket this fall, it was assured as incoming trains deposited hundreds of delegates in St. Paul for the convention which opens tomorrow.

Ex-Governor Eugene N. Posa of Massachusetts, who was looked upon as one of the strongest candidates, has decided not to make the race, according to messages received from the east by leaders here today.

The proposed fusion of the dries and Colonel John M. Parker's orphaned progressives, was still up in the air today. The dries are willing even anxious to fuse. So is Colonel Parker, according to a letter to Virgil P. Shaw, chairman of the prohibition national committee. All that is lacking, according to letters here, is a go-between—somebody to push from both sides.

PRINCE ALBERT IN GREAT BATTLE

LONDON, July 18.—It has just been learned here that Prince Albert, King George's second son, who is a navy sub-lieutenant, was in the thick of the great battle of Jutland. He came through it unscathed, much to the relief of his royal parents. Prince Albert is twenty years old.

SHAWNEE PIONEER IS GIVEN SURPRISE ON SIXTIETH BIRTHDAY

A. F. McPherron is Visited by 125 Relatives Last Sunday.

A. F. McPherron, residing on Rural Route No. 1, in Shawnee township, was given a delightful surprise on Sunday, when one hundred and twenty-five relatives gathered at his home to remind him of his sixtieth birthday. Among the guests present none was given more attention nor enjoyed the day more than Mr. McPherron's mother, who is 82 years of age and resides at 411 South Pine street, Lima.

Mr. McPherron was engaged in duties which kept him inside his home. The entire lot of relatives and friends were inside his gates before he even anticipated their coming. The day was most happily spent.

At half after 12 o'clock, dinner was served from big a table, which was laid in the orchard, with the shade of big trees everywhere and the cool breezes to accompany the enjoyment of the delicious articles of food, of which there was everything the season afforded.

Dinner being finished, Mr. McPherron was given an even greater surprise, when his children and his aged mother presented him with a handsome gold watch. It was well into evening when the guests took their departure.

Members of the McPherron family who enjoyed the day were Mr. and Mrs. W. Roy McPherron and son, of St. Paul, Minn.; Mr. McPherron being a son; Mrs. V. E. Steplton of Shawnee township, a daughter; Lura, Mattie, Harold and Raymond McPherron, at home, and John McPherron, a brother, and his family, 411 South Pine street; Alphas McPherron, a brother, and his family, of North Elizabeth street; Mrs. Martin Gilroy of Lima, a sister; Leslie McPherron, a nephew, and his family of Waynefield; Mrs. Charles Yeazel, a niece, of Lima; Mrs. Roy Cook, a niece, of Harrod; Opal Schofield, a niece, of Harrod; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Logan, the former a brother of Mrs. McPherron of Westminster; Mr. and Mrs. Alva Porter, the latter a cousin of Mr. McPherron; Mrs. Roy Cook a daughter, of Mrs. Porter, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cook, cousins of the family.

ALLEN SMITH DIES AFTER OPERATION

Allen Smith, 62 years old, widower, died at the city hospital this forenoon, after an operation for kidney trouble, from the effects of which he failed to rally. He was employed as blacksmith in Bingville, near Roundhead. The body was removed to the Eckert mortuary in South Main street.

He was born in Ross county on December 23, 1853. Ten children survive his death. They are Mrs. Walter Johnson of Bath township, Mrs. Samuel Rambo of 355 Greenlawn avenue, Mrs. Frank Boop of Bath township, Mrs. E. Baker of Chauncey, Ill., and Mrs. Effie Tabler, daughters; William Smith of Greenfield, Henry of Lima, John of Westminster, Ore. of Chauncey, Ill., and George Allie, at home.

Funeral services will be held at Liberty chapel north of Lafayette, at a time not yet decided upon.

CITY EMPLOYEES HAVE LATE PAY

In the future city employees will not receive their semi-weekly pay until the twentieth and fifth of each month instead of as formerly on the seventeenth and second. The new order goes into effect immediately.

The change is due to the extra time needed in making out the payroll in the required manner. The three days' grace allowed by the change, it is believed, will give sufficient time to attend to the details.

TRY TO SEND CO. C MAN TO HOSPITAL

An appeal has been made to Mayor Simpson, to have Frank Phillips of 508 East Vine street, a member of Company C who lies at his home suffering from an attack of blood poisoning and typhoid fever, removed to the city hospital.

The man was transferred from a Pennsylvania company to Company C and has been sick ever since the local squad left for Camp Willis. The military officials decline to give their consent to the removal of Phillips to the hospital.

He is under the care of Dr. Jeery and a nurse.

Mrs. Edward Collins was removed from the city hospital to her home on South Union street, in the Siford invalid coach, this afternoon.

SON WOULD SHIELD J.R. McLEAN'S NAME

Seeks Court Injunction to Prevent Airing of Letters in Trial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 18.—The second move in the effort of Edward B. McLean to break the will of his father, John R. McLean, the late millionaire publisher of the Cincinnati Enquirer and Washington Post, developed when the District of Columbia supreme court issued a temporary injunction against the turning over of certain letters and private papers found in the effects of the late Mr. McLean to the executors of the estate.

The letters and papers are in the possession of Francis T. Homer, Baltimore attorney, who was a confidential adviser of Mr. McLean for many years before his death. They are understood to be from diplomats, United States senators and other public men, as well as many women.

The letters, which it is contended are purely personal and private in their nature, necessarily would become public property if produced in court proceedings. This Edward B. McLean is trying to prevent.

He is seeking to avoid the airing of McLean family matters in the court in connection with his effort to obtain entire control of the $20,000,000 estate of his father. The temporary injunction was granted upon the petition of young McLean.

Attorney Homer is ordered to show cause July 21 why the letters should not be surrendered to Mr. McLean instead of the American Security & Trust Co. of this city, executors and trustees of the estate.

The banking company has made a demand on Attorney Homer for the documents for the purpose of using them in contesting the effort to break the McLean will. Some of the letters, it is stated, are exchanges between the late Mr. McLean and his son, and would throw light on the reasons why the millionaire publisher framed his will in a way forever to bar his son from coming into possession of his estate.

In his petition Edward B. McLean contends that John R. McLean personally requested that the letters and papers in question be burned or otherwise destroyed immediately after his death. It is further set forth in the injunction petition that it was never the purpose "that the letters should pass into the possession of the American Security & Trust Co., thus exposing to shame and humiliation persons who have no connection with or interest in the controversy between the plaintiff and the American Security & Trust Co."

Mr. McLean sets forth in his petition that if the letters are delivered to the trust company he will suffer "irreparable injury and damage."

All official Washington is tremendously interested in the result of the injunction suit. If the temporary order is vacated and the letters turned over to the banking

GEORGE FISHER FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TOMORROW

The Rev. Earnest Anton Trabert, pastor of the church, will officiate. Interment will be at Woodlawn.

For several years Mr. Fisher has been ill, but his present illness was confined to five weeks. He was born in Baden, Germany, on May 4, 1847. For 47 years he has resided in Lima. Death was due to diabetes.

The widow is left. Mrs. Roeder, Mrs. R. O. Woods of Lima, Mrs. E. Beasire of Kansas City and Ralph G. Fisher of Lima, are surviving children. He also has five grand-children.

CITY MAY SUE FOR D. T. & I. LIGHT BILL

Council Inquires Why Telephone Rate Decision is Delayed.

In order to secure payment of a light bill of more than $4,100 Acting Solicitor H. E. Garling was authorized last night by the city council to bring suit, if necessary, against the D. T. & I. railway company. The indebtedness for arc lights at crossings has been accumulating for five years, and negotiations for settlement had been undertaken by Solicitor Light before his call to the colors.

Another dealing which the council authorized Garling to re-open with the railroad affects the East Market street subway proposal. The authorities of the D. T. & I. have been consulted on this before, and it is expected that the threatened suit over a huge light debt will serve to provide a means of speeding up the subway project.

As a sequel to the declaration filed yesterday by five citizens, stating intention of starting starting an initiative election making the Lima telephone system a municipal proposition, the council ordered an inquiry of the state board of public utilities commissioners regarding the delay in setting the valuation of the local plant. More than two years have passed since Solicitor Walter S. Jackson started the fight for lower rates, and at present the matter has reached the stage of a valuation dispute before the state body.

Suits against the city as a result of claims for damage to adjacent property owners because of the construction of the Pine street bridge will soon be forthcoming, according to the report of Service Director McLeany. He stated that several owners of property affected by the work have signified their intentions of suing for settlements.

Other matters were disposed of as follows:

Sewer for Robb avenue, Main to West, to be connected up after Fuller survey plan is accepted, authorized; sale of $100,000 river improvement bonds postponed indefinitely; Pierce street paving project held up pending decision of school board for block between North and High; Shawnee street, Bellefontaine avenue to High and High to Pennsylvania tracks ordered paved; McDonel street, North Shore drive to North street and North to McKibben, same; Harrison avenue to Kibby, same.

SHORT WEIGHT.

Costadin Cristof, arrested on a charge of selling short of the standard weight, pleaded not guilty to the charge in the court of Justice of the Peace Hamilton, yesterday. The case was set for hearing July 26. It is alleged that he has a pair of scales at his store on the south side that are two ounces short of the required standard.

FINED AND SENTENCED.

ROTARIANS THROG IN OLD CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, O., July 18.—The number of Rotarians officially registering today totals 4,500 with more than 2,000 visitors from Rotarian cities also registering. The convention opened this morning at Emory auditorium with the question of membership, honorary and associate being the principal subject of discussion. The Rotarian in the smaller cities and duplication of classification were questions later discussed.

While the delegates were in session their associate Rotarians, men and women, paraded the streets with greetings to Cincinnati, the principal features being the Kansas City Mule and the Battle Creek, Mich., Rotary Horse, each animal extending invitations to the Rotarians for the 1917 convention.

No action on the subjects discussed by the delegates will be taken until tomorrow. The balance of today will be taken up in automobile rides to the hills. A dinner to the international officers will be given this evening at the Shinton.

LIMA ROTARY CLUB WINS APPLAUSE BY CONVENTION STUNT

Local Actors Stage Gridiron Club Burlesque of National Figures.

Mack Altschul, as Bryan, Denies He's Dead in Any Sense.

CINCINNATI, O., July 18.—Members of the Lima Rotary club registered an immense hit at the luncheon yesterday, when they staged a humorous sketch before the international convention of Rotarians here. Their act was a series of burlesques of national celebrities in politics.

Thor Zettits impersonated William Howard Taft, discussing the difference between the presidency and a professorship. He was followed by Fred M. Gooding, who represented Congressman Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati, "discoverer of how to make Alice blue." Nelson Shook assumed the part of Theodore Roosevelt, with M. J. Mooney representing President Wilson. Charles E. Hughes was handled by William H. Moore and W. J. Bryan by Mack Altschul. Each was introduced by two heralds, W. C. Fridley and Sam Weinfield, who read verses heralding the coming of the character in costume and makeup.

As Bryan was announced a funeral dirge was played, and a coffin was rolled in by Charles C. Dearborn, attired as an undertaker. On the lid were a wreath of lilies, an olive branch, a dove and a bottle of grape juice. The fictitious Bryan jumped on the stage crying: "Who said I was dead? You can't kill me," and delivered a body on the commoner's "crown of thorns and cross of gold" address of 1896. The other characters responded to their introductions by autobiographical speeches based on the humorous side of current politics.

The sketch of the Lima Rotarians, shaped after the traditional entertainment of the Gridiron club of Washington, was one of the successes of the luncheon and attracted favorable comment among the delegates and visitors.

INCREASE NOT NECESSARY.

COLUMBUS, July 18.—Despite constant increase of payrolls of industrial concerns and number of accidents in Ohio, it is not necessary to increase premiums for workmen's compensation insurance, according to E. E. Watson, actuary of the state industrial commission.

PRESIDENT TALKS WITH LEADERS

WASHINGTON, July 18.—President Wilson, this afternoon suddenly went to his office in the senate chamber and called a meeting of democratic leaders with the avowed determination of forcing the upper house of congress to put through the child labor bill before adjourning.

The president's appearance at the capitol came as a surprise. He had not taken any one into his confidence. When the cabinet meeting broke up about noon at the White House the president called his automobile and left for the senate without a word to anyone.

When he reached his office in the senate, the president sent first for Majority Leader Kern. The Indiana senator at once went into conference with the president.

Senator Kern was with the president about ten minutes. When he came out Senator Martin, chairman of the appropriations committee, went into conference with the president.

"It's nothing to get excited about," Senator Kern said after he left the president. "I don't think we will have to revise our program today and I think we will adjourn when intended to."

GYPSY IS HELD ON NOVEL CHARGE

LOS ANGELES, July 18.—Gypsy clans throughout the United States rushed to the aid of Joseph Marino when he was arrested here on the charge of selling his daughter Rosa and then kidnapping her from John Guy, a fellow tribesman, in Chicago. The accusation against Marino was that he sold the girl for $2,000 and then stole her a few minutes after the marriage, while friends were congratulating the bridegroom.

Marino was traced to Los Angeles, where, upon his arrest, he sent out a call for help and fellow tribesmen began to respond with substantial donations. Attorneys with a fund of thousands of dollars fought extradition to Illinois. Clarence Parrow was retained to press the fight in Illinois.

Attorneys have filed a writ of habeas corpus here in behalf of Marino, and extradition papers were held up pending the action of the Illinois governor.

SANITATION VERY BAD AT OHIO CAMP INSPECTOR FINDS

Quality of Bread Supplied Improves Since Protests Made.

CAMP WILLIS, O., July 18.—The 12,000 soldiers in camp here will be moved to the border in tourist sleepers for at least part of the distance, according to assurances received today by Governor Willis from Senator Pomerene and congressmen.

Senator Pomerene wired today: "Telegram received. Secretary of war advises that better transportation will be afforded than seemed possible when the demand to hurry the troops to the border was more urgent. It may be that tourist sleepers will be only provided part way. Subject to be given department's best attention."

CAMP WILLIS, O., July 18.—Colonel George K. Hunter, inspector of the central war department, and Brigadier General W. V. McMaken and John C. Speake, the highest Ohio militia officers, went into conference today behind closed doors over the conditions in camp disclosed by Colonel Hunter's first day of inspection.

Although Colonel Hunter was said to be satisfied with the quality of food which has been served to the men since Sunday, he was displeased with the sanitary conditions, especially concerning the outhouses. Hunter was pleased with the general appearance of the guardsmen and the condition in which they kept their sidearms and rifles.

Colonel Hunter said he probably would be able to send to General Barry and Secretary of War Baker tonight his report on the conditions here. He said he did not anticipate any recommendations which would delay the departure of the troops for the border.

Cooks in practically all camps today were much pleased over the quality of bread which arrived this morning. The loaves were fresh and wholesome looking and the men devoured their breakfasts with evident relish.

Major R. W. Mearns, chief mustering officer, today made a special order in the case of Sergeant Ben Schlercher of Company A, fifth regiment, Berea, Ohio. Schlercher did not pass the physical examination a week ago because of defective eyesight. He was sent home. Today he bobbed up and applied for re-enlistment. He had had an operation on a muscle in his left eye.

"A man who is so anxious to go to the border that he will undergo an operation on his eyes deserves consideration," said Major Mearns. "Tell the surgeons to do their best to get this man in."

Colonel W. H. Duffy of the quartermaster's department today was awaiting the arrival of 8,000 pairs of shoes, which will enable camp commanders to completely equip their men in the most technical sense of the word.

Regimental commanders today were not expecting orders to move their men before Friday or Saturday because of the lack of activity along the border.

Major Mearns today received instructions from Adjutant Fitch of the central war department to use every precaution to prevent an epidemic of measles in Camp Willis. Fitch said there were many cases reported in other state camps. He ordered that in case of an outbreak an isolated quarantine camp be roped off and men affected confined there for 12 days.

Colonel R. L. Hubler of the third regiment lost heavily in men and officers today through the physical examination.

Those disqualified were: Lieutenant Colonel William T. Amos, of Springfield, commander of the first battalion, embracing companies at Covington, Springfield, Piqua and Urbana; Major Fred Weaver, of Dayton, leading the medical corps; Lieutenant Colonel Earl Quillen, of Company K, Dayton; Captain C. L. Slade, of Company M, Greenville, and Captain C. O. Soehner, of Company G, Dayton. The latter two were promised a re-examination.

Major Leon E. Smith, of Dayton, probably will be recommended for promotion to lieutenant colonel.

JUDGMENT GRANTED

The National Surety company was today granted a judgment in court against Frank R. Stone in the sum of $11,598.05. This was the amount of money asked for in a suit filed in May of this year against Stone by the Surety company.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

A marriage license was issued today to Mose D. Miller, 38, farmer, of Kalona, Ia., and Ada Breneman, 35, houseworker, of Lima. The Rev. Christian Breneman to officiate.

WOMEN BARRED SO GUARDS MAY SWIM

STONEBORO, Pa., July 18.—Stoneboro wished to be patriotic. No town ever wanted more to do "what was right" by the soldier boys than did Stoneboro when it heard that a train load of Philadelphia guardsmen was about to pass through its limits. A big demonstration was arranged.

Then came the word an hour ahead of the train that the Philadelphia would stop in Stoneboro an hour and planned to spend the time swimming in Sandy Lake, on the edge of which Stoneboro stands. There was consternation in Stoneboro. The bath houses boasted no more than a hundred bathing suits—and it was reported there were 300 guardsmen on the train.

Stoneboro met the situation, however. The demonstration was called off by proclamation of a group of prominent citizens. Orders also were issued that all females should stay in doors for the next two hours and that all blinds must be tightly drawn.

The guardsmen had their swim—but even the hundred bathing suits Stoneboro had to offer found no one who wished to use them.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 18.—John Savage, convicted of murder, was respited for death today in the state's prison and the chair had been tested out when a rush message came from Governor Craig at Asheville, respiting him for two weeks. Sheriff Will, Bick of this town is the chief organizer. He is now arranging for a state picnic.

The redhead code says: "He who has red hair is lucky; she who has red hair is more fortunate."

"Whoever dares to cast derision upon a Redhead shall be guilty of an unpardonable sin."

"Whoever shall dye Red hair, any other color shall suffer eternal condemnation of all true Redheads."

"Whoever dyes his hair red shall be received into this society with open arms."

"Every Redhead shall earnestly work to band the Redheads of the country into a mighty organization."

"The Redhead is fiery, energetic,

STUDY MALARIA AND TYPHOID OUTBREAKS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 18.—After making an investigation of typhoid conditions in Jefferson and Tuscaloosa counties, Alabama, Dr. L. L. Lumsden of the United States public health service has arrived in West Tennessee and begun an investigation of conditions in Obion county. His headquarters are at Union City, where for six months eight physicians working under direction of the public health service have been making a survey.

Typhoid, bordering on an epidemic, has prevailed in Jefferson county, Alabama, which includes the city of Birmingham.

At Cossett and Lake Village, in Arkansas, the state board of health and the United States public health service are co-operating in investigating malaria. Houses have been grouped. In one group window-frames screened and the inmates are given quinine. In another group quinine is being administered but no effort is made to screen the windows, while in another group neither quinine is given nor the windows screened. Drainage is also being undertaken to eliminate the mosquitoes as far as possible.

QUALIFICATIONS

Two weeks from today the voters will be confronted with the task of nominating candidates to appear on the ballot in the November election. In most cases there are contests and the voters will be compelled to choose between two or more aspirants for nomination. What percentage of the electorate has taken the trouble, or will take the trouble, to investigate the claims, merits and qualifications of each candidate for every office?

To put it mildly, almost none. There are too many offices, including state, to permit complete familiarity on the part of the voter with the personnel of the ticket. Then in some cases there are too many candidates for the nomination to permit total knowledge by every voter of the availability and value of each. So in some ways we are nominating and electing our officers without knowing why we make some of the selections.

The county races are not so difficult to watch, for in so small a district there is greater chance of securing adequate reports of the character of each candidate. But in the state, senatorial and congressional fights, as well as in the judicial contest, there is bound to be confusion.

Before voting for any man the intelligent voter will have a reason for his choice. The caliber of the man personally, his ability, his reputation for honesty and sincerity, his experience, his backers, his business connections if he is a candidate for certain offices, his reasons for wanting the office and his methods of campaigning—all will be considered by the thoughtful voter. This information may be difficult to obtain. Reliable sources of unbiased information are few in political life. So it behooves the man who would use his franchise rights intelligently to go out of his way to find out the truth. The word of a partisan adherent of any man is worse than worthless—it is misleading. The opinion of an independent fair observer with no personal interests involved is invaluable. If he would play the role of a patriot must ascertain whether the candidate would serve the public or himself, whether he would stand to his work and whether he would not a red-hot stove. Lay no bet on him this day and use to permit such bewilderment in the incompetent or dishonest public officers.

HUGHES' IDEALS

There is no man in the United States where the full and total page of the New York World and there is not a single American journalist turning out more sparkling gems of newspaper literature than this former pupil of Henry Watterson. One can only, however, catch bits here and there, for the elevators are so crowded with the pending of the following mixture of Macabre punch and Adonis that it is almost impossible to get a full view of the man.

We are not divided in our ideals, let us work together to attain them. When Mr. Hughes says this noble sentiment to such members of the Progressive party as are favorable to his candidacy he forgets that the ideal which he specially represents in this campaign is availability. Solicitation as a justice of the supreme court during the six years that Republicans were ripping each other up the back is what gave him the nomination. The more important ideals of

Mr. Hughes' party may be set down in regular order thus:

1 Reaction at Washington, including the wiping out of the federal reserve banking and currency system. Ideal candidate, Elihu Root.

2 Vindication of Victoriano Huerta, involving intervention in Mexico in behalf of Big Business. Ideal candidate, Henry Lane Wilson.

3 Sympathy with the Kaiser, not because he is the Kaiser but because in his controversy with the president of the United States over the murderous misuse of submarines he permitted a Democratic chief magistrate to win a great diplomatic victory. Ideal candidate, Henry Weissmann of the German American Alliance.

4 Compulsory military service for every able-bodied American, and war with somebody or everybody as soon as possible. Ideal candidate, Theodore Roosevelt.

5 A tariff scientifically rewritten by the attorneys of the various interests to be benefited, with particular attention to the eminent patriots who contribute largely to the party's campaign chest. Ideal candidate, Boies Penrose.

6 Emphatic opposition to the hideous doctrine that Americans have inalienable rights to life and property at sea, even though all Europe be at war. Ideal candidates, Joseph G. Cannon and James R. Mann.

7 No man to be appointed a member of the supreme court of the United States who cannot get the endorsement of Wall Street, New York, and State Street, Boston. Ideal candidate, William H. Taft.

8 Dollar Diplomacy, with as many dollars as possible and not too much nonsense about diplomacy. Ideal candidate, J. P. Morgan.

9 America First and True Americanism as elucidated and practiced by the German-American Alliance and not by that weak and tawdry imitation, the president of the United States. Ideal candidate, Dr. Hexamer.

10 Public office to be conferred exclusively upon Republicans, all Progressives to be classed as Democrats. Ideal candidate, Jacob H. Gallinger.

This leaves nothing much in the way of ideals as the exclusive property of Mr. Hughes except the two little ones which he has announced since his nomination. One of these is the proposition that the indecent prosperity inflicted upon the country by a Democratic administration is to be ignored because it is only temporary. The other is that the efficient and hard-working American ambassadors and ministers in Europe being nothing but honest Democrats, ought to be displaced by superior Republican plutocrats at once.

If Republicans and Progressives are not divided in their ideals, what were they fighting about for six years and how did it happen that the only candidate they could agree upon this year was one who had been away from home so long that when the family row was under way?

The ideals to which Mr. Hughes must subscribe are numerous and peculiar. We are afraid that he is going to get them mixed.

The old-fashioned Republican who voted for Blaine in 1884 for alternative reasons can now nominate his own man, by sticking up for Hughes, Hyphenism and Hohenzollern.

Speaking of candidates, did you ever notice how about half of the candidates play their age, birthplace and early life, while the other half will guard secrets with utmost care?

GOOD EVENING. There are many individuals who wish the campaign were over and the next president were already inaugurated.

Triangle Fatal Sign,

Dorothy Dix Shows,

In Orpet Love Tragedy,

Advent of "Other Woman" in Case Meant Death for One and Grief for All, as It Has in Similar Cases Since Beginning of World.

IT TAKES three people to make a play, or a novel, or a divorce, or a murder of the kind that the French describe as a crime of passion. As long as there is just the one man and the one woman in the sentimental relationship, all in faith and peace and calm, and love is one grand, sweet song, but when the other woman or the other man comes upon the scene the trouble begins.

This has been true since the beginning of time. No one ever heard of any trouble in the Adam family until the advent of the snake—the third party. It was he that turned Eden into a wilderness and banged the doors of Paradise behind our first parents. And the same thing has been happening ever since. Nobody has ever been able to make the human triangle square with anything but disaster and misery.

An interesting illustration of this is given in the Orpet case that is now being tried in Waukegan, Ill., where two girls and a man have led to the making of one of the most mysterious tragedies that the world has ever known.

All of these concerned in this curious story of love and death are very young. The oldest of them being barely 23 years old, all of them are of extraordinary beauty, and all of them should of rights have lived long and happily except that fate tangled their heart strings and got all three on the same electric circuit of love.

Marian Lambert at Top of Triangle of Love and Tragedy.

All three of them are victims of the human triangle. At the top of this human triangle was Marian Lambert, a pretty little blonde girl with wild roses on her cheeks and a laugh forever bubbling on her lips. She was only 17, nothing but a little school girl, but she was old enough to fall in love, and young enough to be confiding and trusting, and she gave all that a woman can give and paid woman's bitterest penalty for it.

At one of the lower corners of the triangle is Will Orpet. He is only a boy, just 20, handsome as a young faun, with classically regular features, beautiful long almond shaped hazel eyes, and with "a way with him" that captures the fancy of women.

At the other corner of the triangle is Celestia Youker, the other woman in the case. Celestia Youker is also young and beautiful, with dark hair and brilliant coloring, so that she looks like a gorgeous American Beauty rose. Marian Lambert was a simple little light-hearted girl, with no great mentality, but Celestia Youker is a brilliant young woman, a student and a teacher of chemistry in a college. Marian Lambert was but a gardener's daughter, but Celestia Youker belongs to a fine and aristocratic family.

William Orpet and Marian Lambert were lovers. Last summer they were all in all to each other as they wandered together through the leafy glades of Holmes Woods. There was no rapture of passion that did not thrill their young hearts, they ate of the forbidden fruit of romance and it was sweet on their tongues.

Advent of Other Girl Meant Tragedy for All Three of Principals.

If there had only been these two, the little love idyll of William Orpet and Marian Lambert would doubtless have flowered into matrimony and happiness, but there was the other girl who also loved William Orpet, and to whom he had also made love. So tragedy came.

Who shall explain the vagaries of a man's fancy? Perhaps because Marian Lambert had been the ripe fruit that tumbled into his mouth Orpet tired of her. Perhaps because the other girl was the unattainable peach that hung highest on the tree he desired her and wanted his hands free to climb up to reach her. At any rate he did weary of Marian and sought in every way to rid himself of her. And the more he wearied of her the more she clung to him and used every artifice that her poor fancy could devise to hold him.

So it happened that on a morning in last February Marian Lambert and Will Orpet walked together in Holmes Woods for the last time. It was winter and snow was on the ground, and the world was not more cold and dead than the love in the boy's heart. And when William Orpet went out of the woods he went alone, and his little sweetheart that he once had loved laid dead in the snow, and whether he killed her or whether in frantic despair in losing him she took her own life, nobody knows but him.

The Triangle in Love is Always a Sign of Misfortune.

In all probability, no one ever will know, but it would not have happened except that there were the two women and the one man. It is just a repetition of the eternal tragedy of the human triangle where one always loses out, and all three invariably come to disaster. For the triangle in love is the sign of misfortune.

It is only the circle, the size of a wedding ring, that is the mark of happiness in love.

TRAVELLETTES BY KISSAN.

HANNIBAL.

Hannibal is a city under the shadow of a great name. Every American town likes to produce a few great men, to indulge in reminiscence about them and the unpromising ways of their youth, and to meet them with bands and banquets when they return to their boyhood haunts. But there is evidently danger in giving the world a man too great. He eclipses the town.

Hannibal might strike a goldmine or a diamond bed in the hills, become the center of a flourishing aeroplane industry, grow to a city of a hundred thousand people, establish the greatest American colleges and museums, and still, when some one mentioned Hannibal, Missouri, the public would nod its head and say, "Oh yes—Mark Twain's old town."

Luckily, while Hannibal is pushing and boosting after the manner of all good American cities, it has not yet reached the point where the diligent reader of "Tom Sawyer," and "Huckleberry Finn" can not recognize old landmarks. Even the atmosphere of Hannibal is much the same as it must have been in the days when Sam Clemens set type on his brother's newspaper and firmly resolved that if industry and determination could turn the trick he would some day rise to pinacles of fame and greatness—he would some day be a Mississippi river pilot. And before very many years he was a pilot, and a good one, too.

The American government nowadays is pursuing a laudable policy in creating national monuments. It has set aside lakes and mountains and glaciers, and will probably set aside the Grand Canyon. There is a spot near Hannibal that might well be added to the list, and that is the famous cave, where Tom Sawyer administered the oath to his fellow-bandits. In "Huckleberry Finn" and where he lost himself and his companion in "Tom Sawyer" the cave is an excellent cave on its own merits, with underground lakes and bottomless pits, and unexplored windings. With the added glamour that our kindly genius has given it, it is worthy of all the respect the American people can give it.

LIMA RACES JULY 24-27, 1916

MALAY WEAPONS.

The national Malay weapon, the creese, is said to have been invented by a Javanese monarch of the fourteenth century. Its varieties are said to exceed 100, and there are in Java no fewer than 50 names for them. It varies in size from the two-foot, wavy blade of the Bulu down to a mere toothpick. But the peculiarity is that the weapon is never ground, but kept rough and sawlike in edge by scouring with lime juice or the juice of an unripe pineapple, sometimes mixed with arsenic and it is on this account that creese wounds are so dangerous. Old specimens are so eaten away by this practice that the blade seems formed from a bunch of wires roughly welded up. Such creeses are highly valued, and some of the ancient ones heirlooms of chiefs, with grotesquely carved and inlaid hilts and sheaths, are almost unpurchasable. —Exchange

'WHAT WE WOULD DO.'

"I CERTAINLY wouldn't have done that, if it were I." Such a common saying isn't it? And each and every one of us have been guilty sometime or other of saying that every thing, or thinking that every thing. We hear of some happening that pleases or displeases and we immediately criticize the persons involved and tell what we would have done under the same circumstances.

Fact is, you know, only those persons who have been similarly situated have the right to say what they would have done, and also to do the judging, and even then judging is a risky business. But judging and criticizing are found every day, in the most common of situations. We fume about the slowness of the sagegirl, who is slow to wait on us, forgetting that her reason might be as good as our impatience. We hotly discuss the shortcomings of our friends, or criticize the seemingly indiscreet actions of an acquaintance. We are unjust, selfish, thoughtless, unkind, conceited and absolutely ridiculous, and yet we continue to do this very thing day in and day out. It's just one of the sub-heads of gossip, this "what we would do" feeling. For nine times out of ten we have never been in the same situation we are discussing, and we are merely voicing our views on the subject, not giving out an ultimatum as to our actions if we were placed under the same conditions. It is perfectly alright to have views on certain things, and our "what we would" ideas are generally right, BUT, they might not be what we really would do if we came to a crisis, any more than it was what our friend or acquaintance did. Therefore don't judge her or criticize her until you have tested your own depths of selfishness, and even then it isn't right to say much.

Logic may help to give a man theology. It will never give him a religion.—John Henry Jowett.

HELEN BATCHELDER SHUTE obtained this very interesting interview with Leginska, the pianist, who will appear here this winter before the Music club. It was published in the July Musical Observer:

"You never get anything in the world if you don't sacrifice. There are so many who do their work in just an ordinary way, and I don't want to be one of those. I want to do better."

Leginska was a noticeable figure, hardly five feet tall, slight and boyish-looking, with her hair cut short, parted on one side and standing out bushily. She was wearing a severe robe de chambre blouse, tailored skirt, and low-heeled pumps. Her face is serious, but very expressive, and as she talked her light blue eyes would reflect every mood and her whole face change wonderfully with one of her rare smiles.

"Now what shall we do," she began, "will you talk to me, or shall I talk to you?"

"Why, you talk to me, of course," I answered, "please tell me something of your career, where you were born, how old you are, and so on. Is it proper to ask how old you are?"

"Oh, yes, the papers have me twenty, I believe, but I am twenty-two or twenty-three; you had better put it twenty-three. I was born in Hull, Yorkshire, England. I began to play when I was three years old, and after studying with a local teacher, some wealthy people—the Wilsons, of the Wilson steamship line—took me up. They heard me playing at a concert when I was about eight years old, and were greatly interested."

"I made my debut finally in London at the Queen's hall, and played before Prince Francis of Teck, the Prince of Wales, Queen Alexandra, and many wealthy society people. Lady Maude Wallender heard me, too, and she was very very interested."

"What composer do you like best?" I asked.

"Why, people imagine I play Chopin the best, because I have given whole recitals of his work, playing the twenty-four etudes, the sonata in B flat minor, etc., but I love everything that is good. I think we should be very versatile—be able to play everything well."

"Aside from your work what do you like to do for recreation?" I asked.

"I am interested in anything and everything," she answered, "but don't let myself have any of it." "Why not?"

"Because you never can get anything in the world if you don't sacrifice. I suppose when I get older I shall relax a little more. I like to ride horseback, but am too daredevil, and after a number of falls, found I would have to give that up. I am very fond of sea bathing, and that is the only recreation I allow myself."

"How much do you practice?"

"I think anybody who wants to be a public pianist must practice six hours a day."

What Is a Dangerous Girl?

There Are Various Points of View, According to the Attitude of the Judge.

By Beatrice Fairfax.

THERE NEVER lived a woman whose heart would not flutter in delighted response to a masculine voice exclaiming tenderly (or bitterly or sadly or angrily—as the case might be) "You're a dangerous girl."

To be told that she is "dangerous" makes a girl feel like a choice combination of caviar, dynamite Havana cigar, submarine U-boat, strawberry shortcake in January, absinthe, automobile cup race, two dollar a pound marmons and ticket to heaven, Ltd.

And so it is only natural and altogether to be expected that the clever new song, "YOU'RE A DANGEROUS GIRL," now being sung all over the land, on the stage and off, should make a tremendous hit. It tells a real human-nature story in sparkling words set to a lilting melody. The tune and swing of it bubble right up to your lips—and the truth of it strikes right down to your heart.

Your eyes twinkle when you hear "A DANGEROUS GIRL." And your busy brain goes a tip-toeing right after the amusing philosophy of it. "Danger!" says the Dictionary—"Hazard, peril, exposure to injury." "Dangerous girl," says Man—and his eyes add, "Hazard in life's game which I mean to win; injury to which my heart has been exposed and which can be cured only by more of the same dear injuries from the same dangerous injurer!"

A Mental Stimulant. Stimulating, effervescent, unusual, precious and altogether desirable bit of femininity—all of that and more a girl feels a man has called her when he tells her that she is dangerous. And she has the youthifying and joyous feeling of being lovable and loved. So all of life seems decidedly worth while and her response to her clever wooer is a giving of her best and sweetest. Old-fashioned folk of the guaranteed narrow-minded school might think a "dangerous girl" and an unscrupulous siren one and the same. But they are very distant relatives! The "Little Winner" of the dangerous girl type is charming and desirable to one man—the one she loves and does not propose to bore and tire by letting him win the race for her favor too soon.

The "Lorelei" of the siren type is a deliberate and unscrupulous lure to all men. Her joy is to steal the husbands and lovers of other women to swerve men from the path of duty and to conquer and make weaklings of men who are slaves to her power.

But the "Dangerous Girl" of our modern day—the girl of the lilting melody which takes its name from her stimulating charm—urges a man on to be his strongest self and to do his best deeds. For how else can he be worthy of her?

The Great Prize. "The Dangerous Girl" is the great prize of life's handicap race. She is all-desirable, she demands a man's best. She isn't to be won and cast aside; she cannot be wooed to-day and forgotten to-morrow; she has to be fought for with all a man's weapons of success and understanding and love. "She keeps a fellow guessing"—and so she keeps him from settling down to self-satisfied, snug, unambitious mediocrity. She keeps him stimulated—and so he is in turn stimulating. She asks the best and gives it and brings it out. She offers the gift of unending interest and so to Eternal Youth to our age. Here's to her—"The Dangerous Girl" who charms and eludes and colors life! The wooing of her is a delight and the winning of her a triumph. Some day when she is a dear old gray-haired grandmother she will still be sweet and winsome enough to bring the glory of Youth Eternal to the stinging heart of the man who is "grandpa" to the youngsters—but her boy, her "beloved boy" to his sweetheart-wife—

PERSONALITIES I HAVE MET

HOLBROOK BLINN.

Copyright 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

AMONG THE foremost artists property boys searched madly for his cap.

on the stage today is Holbrook Blinn, and what a dominant, forceful actor he is! Not very long ago I saw him in a picture called "The Boss," one of his great stage successes, and though I thought him splendid, I missed his rare diction and that fiery something—I guess you call it magnetism—he always breathed from his lines.

The first time I ever met Mr. Blinn was when I was allowed behind the scenes, several years ago, to watch Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske and Mr. Blinn in "Salvation Nell."

"May I take my little cousin in with me?" I whispered to the stage manager at the door. "She is very well behaved and I am sure she will be no trouble at all."

The manager gave a furtive glance at "Little Cousin" and saw that she was a very demure, large-eyed, timid-looking little thing, who would never have the courage even to whisper unless she was invited.

"Of course, Mr. Blinn has hypnotized many, but never do I think he made such an impression as upon my little cousin, who stood trembling in the wings as she watched him. "He looks like a man in my history book," she whispered, and I knew without asking her that she meant Napoleon Bonaparte.

Much to our delight, when he left the scene, he came and stood quite close to us in the wings and talked with the manager and one of the other actors. It was a sultry afternoon and Mr. Blinn had worn on the stage a cap pulled down over his eyes. Fascinated, my little cousin watched him take off the cap and lay it down on a barrel, while he ran his fingers through his hair and fanned himself with a newspaper.

While they were talking, a messenger came to call him to the telephone, and when he returned, five minutes later—his cap had disappeared! We heard Mr. Blinn's clue to make ready for his next entrance and watch breathlessly while all the

"What am I going to do?" he cried desperately. "I simply can't go on without that cap, and it's nowhere to be found!" "Perhaps it fell into the barrel," I piped up, and as if there had been a cue for him, he went headlong into the barrel, searching the bottom of it and then came up—without the cap.

Such dia and confusion as followed! From the very tiptop dressing-room to the basement of the theatre they hunted, and no cap to be found! Mr. Blinn is usually a man of great poise, but that was a pretty risky situation to find oneself in—a long, delayed cue and a necessary property which was hopelessly lost.

"Has any one in this theatre a cap?" thundered Mr. Blinn. "I've got to have one!"

Another wild dash. A breathless property man appeared with hats of all sizes, kinds and hues, but nothing in the shape of a cap.

"If you please, sir," piped up the small boy of all chores, "I have a cap, sir."

"Give it to me, quick," yelled Mr. Blinn, making a dash for the boy, just as the stage director hurried out to inform him they had been waiting three or four minutes for his entrance. It was a cap, all right, several sizes too small, and it perched on the boy's head, but it served the purpose—saved the scene.

But now to finish the story. When my little cousin and I reached home, I looked at her, astounded, to see that she was hollow-eyed and pale-faced.

"Why, what is the matter?" I cried out aghast. "Are you ill?"

She could not reply, but slowly her little trembling hands slipped down into her middie blouse and drew out the cap!

"You wicked child!" I cried out, shaking her by both shoulders. "Did you—were you the one who took

Answers to Correspondents

Mary D.—If you do not like Charlie Chaplin's work on the screen, it is possible you made the same mistake made by a friend of mine, who saw one of his many imitators in a similar role and thought he was Charlie Chaplin. Later, when she saw the real Chaplin she was convulsed with laughter and is an ardent Chaplin fan now.

Mabel R.—You can write to the Vitagraph Co., 116 Nassau street,
New York City, for the sample moving picture scenario they furnish.

Eugene A. B.—Yes, indeed, I do think Mr. Bushman would enjoy receiving a letter from you, quite as much as I did. What a splendid record you must have had at school!
I never knew a boy with freckles
who was not quick-witted and clever!

C. H. M.—The color of my eyes is hazel. I'm sorry you had an argument over it with your fiancée!

Ruth Harte—Why not write to one of the theatrical magazines, The Clipper or Dramatic Mirror, for the information you wish to secure about the actress. They may be able to furnish it, in spite of her supposed obscurity.

J. V. T.—I'll have to tell you what I told the little boy in a previous letter—quick wit and freckles seem to go together. I'm sure you'll have a good time at Camp Aloha. I played only in a two-reel of "Ramona," produced by Mr. D. W. Griffith for the Biograph.

NO TIME TO EXPERIMENT.

The lecturer on Biblical tribes
new his subject, but he was weak on pronunciation. One word that always floored him was Phillistina.
He could never remember for five minutes what the dictionary had to say about that. At every speech he switched the accent from the ultimate to the penult and antepenult and all the way back again, and gave the last "i" the English and continental sounds impartially. One night at a public school lecture, he started with Phillistines (long "i") and gradually rang all the changes possible except Phillistines (continental "i"). When he got ready to use the word again he paused. It was the fatal pause, for it gave the mildly inebriated man at the rear of the room a chance to say:
"Go slow, mister. You've only got one more try."—Exchange.

OUR INCREASING POPULATION.

Census bureau experts estimate that the population of the United States on Jan. 1 was 101,208,315, and that by July 1 next it will be 102,017,302. On July 1 last year they figured the population at 100, 399,318.

On the basis of the rate of increase between the 1900 and the 1910 censuses the bureau estimates that there is an increase of 809,977 in the population of the United States every six months, or an annual increase of 1,617,954. The census estimate is that the population of the country is increasing at the rate of 4435 a day—134 every hour
and 2 1-5 persons every minute.

Oklahoma, Nevada, North Dakota

Women Eager to Try Back to Nature

MISS EMILY HAMMIS
FOR KNOWLES

NEW YORK—Forty women have asked to join Joe Knowles,
the American Robinson Crusoe, who will soon start again for the wilderness with no food,
no tools and no such foolishness
as clothes. He believes men should get back to the primitive; but he hadn't counted on the other sex.

However, he has encountered a group of women who are anxious to prove that they also possess the cave-man spirit.
Miss Emily Hammis, prominent in Brooklyn's society set,
is particularly determined to join Knowles in his back-to-nature expedition; and it looks as if Knowles will have plenty of company.

THE PASSING OF THE HOOP SKIRT

Skirts Are Full and Short, but Limp, Depending Upon Width and Material for Bouffancy.

NEW YORK, July 17.—The hoop-skirt scare has entirely passed.
There is no denying the charm of the hoop, but in this day and age it has no place except in the most frivolous of dance and evening gowns,
and even from these, it is being ripped out. This does not mean, however, that we are going back to the narrow skirt; no indeed, merely limp skirts.

The dainty mid-summer voiles and organdies are as full and bouffant as ever, but their fulness falls softly about the figure, and their bouffancy is induced by their width and the nature of the material.

Collars and Sleeves.
Having finished with skirts as far as width, shortness and trimming are concerned, fashion has now turned her attention to the bodice, laying especial stress on collars and sleeves. A little becoming idea

Plain and Striped Voile in Jumper

which strikes one may be used in both of these, affording charming possibilities of showing individuality.
From the dainty, picot-edged turnover or frill on the dark taffeta frock, the collar ranges to the deep broad collar extending to the waistline and below. There are many of us who favor the high collar, even in summer, but this is fashioned of net or organdy, and is open in front, so it is really not a high collar after all, but a very becoming detail of frock or blouse. The wide, tape-like collars are most popular this summer.
For summer evenings, with light frocks, there are becoming runs of net, chiffon, or maline, and the chic little shoulder capes of Georgette trimmed with fur or marabout.

Sleeves are transparent, or semi-transparent, of crepe, net or chiffon to match the color of the material of the frock; and are both long and short. The closely cuffed sleeve is favored, and also the flowing sleeve.
These latter are very easily made,
being finished around the lower edge
with a bias fold, or the effective picot edge.

Underthings for Summer Frocks.
Although not as conspicuous, equally as important as the frock are the dainty underthings designed to complete it. Combinations, envelope chemises, camisoles, petticoats and knickerbockers are being fashioned of pale pink or blue cotton crepe or voile, the barred and striped cottons, wash satins, and the daintiest possible of sprigged silks with pale toned grounds.

The pink or blue crepe or voile is usually finished around armholes, neck and lower edges with bias folds of contrasting color attached with hemstitching. The flowered silks are also bound with white, or a plain

CIRCUS HAS CLOWNS WHO MADE KINGS GRIN

Hart Brothers, With Barnum & Bailey, Were Once Court Jesters.

Clowns from every land—eighty of 'em—are coming to Lima on Wednesday, July 26, with the Barnum & Bailey circus, but among the host of fun makers there are two brothers who can boast of unusual laurels. These two—the Hart brothers—are a pair of acrobatic jesters who were at one time official entertainers to the Sultan of Turkey, and it is their proud boast that they are the only clowns that ever made the ruler laugh.

For many years these famous sawdust comedians performed in various small circuses in Europe, and their unusual performance, consisting of grotesque and difficult acrobatic feats, won for them both fame and fortune. A Turkish government official saw them once at a circus performance in Berlin, and he persuaded them to come to Constantinople. Here their success was instantaneous and they became great favorites of the former Sultan, Abdul Hamid, who made them the official jesters of his court.

When Abdul Hamid was forced to abdicate, the Hart brothers determined to try their fortunes in America. They secured an engagement with the Barnum & Bailey circus and have since been two of the principal mirth provokers of that show. Their fun is spontaneous and compelling, without any cheap horseplay or coarse suggestion, and their droll acts and acrobatic burlesques are enjoyed as much by the grown-ups as by the children.

The Barnum & Bailey circus has always dealt in originality and this season its clowns are no small part of the entertainment. Among this army of sawdust entertainers are many old timers who have been famous clowns for fifty years. At least five of the Barnum & Bailey clowns have passed the 70th milestone of life, but are still young in spirit and action. Some of them have made our grandparents laugh in the good old days of the one ring circus.
Many of them have been clowning
since early youth and most of them come of circus families that have been identified with circuses for several generations. A few of the famous entertainers who will appear here with the circus are the Baker troupe, Herman Joseph, Pat Valdo, color, or are finished with lace. The envelope chemise is one of the most popular of garments, being shirred, smocked, tucked or box-pleated. For general wear glove-silk knickerbockers and a plain camisole are most practical.

Shantung Used in Simple Dresses.
The summer muslins are exceptionally dainty and charming in their color combinations this season;
maize, rose, the palest of pinks and
blues being popular, and also white.
Shantung and pongee are modish,
too, being used in many of the imported frocks and suits. These Shantungs come in charming colorings, in stripes, dots, conventionalized designs and plain tones. They are most practical for street dresses and suits of the sports type. Plain natural pongee is being trimmed with vivid, contrasting touches of rose, emerald green, which is one of the most popular of shades this season, orange, and the other popular shades. Shantung and pongees are also modish and practical materials for the separate coats for general wear over light frocks and for motoring.

Taffeta and Organdy in Afternoon
Dress.

Speaking of separate coats, they have been more in demand these last few seasons than for some time, owing to the popularity of one-piece dresses. Some of the most attractive of these coats are being made of dark, blue Bedford cord with collar and cuffs of white broadcloth or fannel. Gay silks are used for lining them, or no linings at all. Some of the new lining foulards and voiles are particularly effective.

TODAY AND TOMORROW
Ann Pennington, one of the smallest stars who ever created a great sensation on Broadway, is the star of the Famous Players production,
"Susie Snowflake," in which this celebrated little Ziegfeld "Follies" star makes her motion picture debut. Though only four feet ten inches in height, Miss Pennington has proven one of the most colossal hits of the musical comedy world and is perhaps better known throughout the whole country than any other actress who has ever before seen on the screen, for her praises have been sung by every visitor to Gotham town for the last three years.

When the great musical comedy success, "The Red Widow," went on the road four years ago, Miss Pennington won a great personal triumph by her clever work in that play, and she has steadily gained in popularity ever since that time.
Captivating, saucy, clever and appealing, Miss Pennington is an ideal screen star, for she comes to the motion picture endowed with all the physical requirements of the successful artist, coupled with stage experience.

The Famous Players wisely selected "Susie Snowflake"—there is no illusory charm about the title itself which suggests that diminutive star
—as the vehicle for Miss Penning-ton's debut.

What more appropriate than that a musical comedy favorite should inaugurate her reign upon the screen than by playing a musical comedy star in the shadow drama! Susie is, in fact, the daughter of an actress who takes up the profession as soon as she is big enough to walk. As in real life, Susie finds that her diminutive stature is no bar to the accomplishment of great things, and she soon becomes very popular. But the show fails, and she is forced to seek admission to the old home, which her mother had deserted many years before. Here she finds two maidenly aunts, who are horrified at her being an actress.

Let us leave this hapless little bundle of repressed happiness in the hands of her austere aunts, whose valiant efforts to crush all her individuality and charm fall miserably and give rise only to rebellion. There is a lover—a real, honest lover—and a young chap
who hopes to win Susie's favor through his money bags; then there is an old man who mistakes Susie
for an unsophisticated little darling.
In other words, there is a wealth of comedy and drama in "Susie Snowflake."

In support of Miss Pennington
there appear Leo Delaney, William Courtleigh, Jr., William Butler,
Marcia Harris and Billie Wilson.

AT THE STAR.
Mary Fuller in "The Garden of Shadows." Mary Fuller is always herself but in this picture she shows to particular advantage. There is nothing at all of the sensational,
no "stunt" of any kind; just Mary Fuller as her own sweet self. On the same program, Violet Mersereau

and William Garwood will appear in a Victor comedy entitled, "The Gentle Art of Burglary." And "A Bold Bad Breeze," one of the famous L-K-O comedies with Billy Ritchie
at the head of the cast.

Hard Consistent Hitters Are Not Very Plentiful

NEW YORK, July 18.—Has batting become a lost art in the big leagues?

Those who have scanned clubbing records embracing the past four or five years have found that no real swatting phenom has been produced in that time. Also, they have noticed with amazement that year after year the demon maulers have suffered a shrinkage in their averages.

The last real batting person to appear along the base ball horizon was Josephus Jackson who arrived in 1911. Since that period close to 1,000 youngsters have come up from the bushes, and taken a whirl in big league life. Out of that army not one, with the possible exception of Dave Robertson, of the New York Giants, has shown anything remarkable in a batting way.

Robertson is getting his first real trial this year. He has been banging the ball with startling regularity and looks as if he might remain in the select circle of famous sluggers. But looks sometimes are deceiving. Robertson may sweep through many seasons of play at this same remarkable pace he has maintained to date, or like George Stone, of the 1906 Browns, he may blow himself to one great year and then skid back to obscurity.

No Great Stars Since 1911. When Cobb, Speaker, Jackson, Doyle, Daubert, Collins and the few other batting stars of the present time have faded and gone who will arise to take their places? Most of them have reached the crest and are going backward. Yet no one has come in five years to fill their soon-to-be-vacant niches. The veterans have been finding it difficult this season to maintain the same terrific pace of bygone days, they are not in much danger of being dethroned. Save Robertson none of the youngsters have shown enough to challenge.

Back in the early days of the American league Lajoie was the ruler of the hitting realm. Soon Cobb came along and offered battle. A while later Tris Speaker, Eddie Collins, Frank Baker and then Joe Jackson entered the battle. But since the appearance of Jackson five years ago no batter of real merit has appeared along the John-sonian frontier.

It is much the same in the National league. Up to five years ago there were quite a number of swatters in that circuit who always gave Honus Wagner a merry little battle. But they dropped by the wayside eventually. Along in 1910-11-12 Larry Doyle, Jake Daubert, Home Zimmerman, Fred Luderus arrived and began swatting .300 or beyond, and pushed Wagner into the background, as Lajoie was pushed in the American league. Since then they have been monopolizing the top runs in the National clubbing ladder. Except on these rare occasions when me like Chief Meyers, Sherwood Magee and a few others have flashed a good year.

The woeful falling off in batting averages during the past five years is shown best by the perusal of statistics compiled by the Base Ball Magazine and printed in the August number. The figures show that there were 42 men in both leagues who batted beyond .300 in 1911 against 13 last season. The table also points out that there were only two .325 hitters in both leagues in 1915 against 16 in 1911—a decrease of about 57 per cent.

The table follows:

American League.
Year	At Bat	Hits	Avg.
1911	400	375	.350	.325
1912	400	375	.350	.325
1913	400	375	.350	.325
1914	400	375	.350	.325
1915	400	375	.350	.325

Both Leagues Combined.

Year	At Bat	Hits	Avg.
1911	400	375	.350	.325
1912	400	375	.350	.325
1913	400	375	.350	.325
1914	400	375	.350	.325
1915	400	375	.350	.325

The general batting decline in both leagues is shown by the following table which relates how the grand average for the two major circuits has dropped from .267 in 1911 to .248 in 1915:

Year	At Bat	Hits	Avg.
1911	82,333	21,972	.267
1912	82,054	22,038	.268
1913	80,437	21,032	.261
1914	81,583	20,340	.249
1915	81,188	20,145	.248

SHORT SPORT

It must have had a bad effect on the Giants to win those 17 straight. They have played like bushers ever since.

The Yankees took a brace and widened the gap between their position and the Red Sox by trimming the Tigers in both games.

But the Red Sox are holding on. "Dutch" Leonard showed some of his a-1 form and the Browns were easy.

The Indians came back after their temporary setback and the Nationals were on the short end.

Just when every team was picking the Reds they up and tame the Braves.

"Wheeler" Dell came back into his own and the Cubs were beaten by the Dodgers.

Both Philadelphia teams took a day off. Rain was the reason.

Here's a Real Fighter.

Frank Slavin, the Australian heavyweight who, 20-odd years ago, made John L. Sullivan quit talking about fighting, is now a private in a Canadian regiment in Europe, and there he is just as much a fighter as when he was in the ring. Slavin is now 54 years old, and he stands six feet and one and one-half inches, as he did when he was 25 years of age and at his physical prime.

LOVE'S LABOR LOST.

One night four Princeton boys went galli forth to serenade two belles of the town. Arrived at the house of the fair ones, they took their stand under the correct window, as they thought, and for some time made the night more or less melodious.

They were just preparing to leave when a door opened and the jolly old father of the girls appeared. Had it been light, they might possibly have seen a twinkle in his eyes. "Boys," said he, "we are much obliged. That is, I am much obliged, for I happen to be alone tonight. I am sorry to say that the family is in New York, but I thank you for coming. Maybe if you come again, you'll have better luck. But in the name of old Princeton, boys, if you do come when the girls are here, don't play to the bathroom window."—Exchange.

Herzog to Go to Chi Ball Club

CHICAGO, July 18.—President Weeghman, of the Cubs, hurriedly caught an early morning train for Cincinnati and according to what he told friends here before he left, he hopes to make a trade with President Herrmann of the Reds whereby Shortstop Herzog will be added to the Chicago team. The deal under which Herzog was to go to the Giants in part payment for the release of Christy Mathewson to the Reds, has met with a hitch, Weeghman was informed and he lost no time in hurrying to the Ohio city in the hope he could fill the yawning gap in the North Side team.

FIGHT RESULTS

NEW YORK.—Benny Volger, Lightweight, defeated Willie Astey in 10 rounds.
Mickey McCabe shaded Barney Adair in a 10-round bout.

A CAMEL TRAIN OF BIBLES.

It is not usual to associate the Bible with the Sahara Desert. We were somewhat amazed, therefore, on returning one late afternoon from a camel journey into the edge of the desert, near Old Biskra, to meet a camel train of somewhat unusual appearance, and upon inquiry by our camel driver to find that these "ships of the desert" were starting, Saharward with several thousand Bibles and Testaments. The strangeness and incongruity of this spectacle were increased when, shortly after the meeting, the time for evening prayer having arrived, we looked back and in the distance saw the camels climbing down from their long-necked beasts, facing Mecca beginning their Mohammedan prayers in answer to a faint cry of the muezzin in a distant Bedouin village. Come to prayer!
Come to salvation!
There is no God but God, And Mohammed is his Prophet."

We learned later that these Bibles which were being shipped into the heart of the great desert, were all printed in Arabic, many of them in separate gospels, and were to be sold to Arab Moslems at two cents apiece. They were forwarded by one of the large English Bible societies which is now working with excellent fruitage in North Africa, and the Bible secretary informed the writer that the followers of Mohammed, while they were not changing their faith, were becoming interested in reading the Christian text-book which many of them were opening now for the first time.—The Christian Herald.

BODY FOUND IN RUINS.

CLEVELAND, O., July 18.—Fred Selzer, 65, was found dead on the kitchen floor of the burned ruins of his home early this morning. Bruises and cuts on the body lead Coroner Byrne and police to believe the man was murdered in a brawl. Neighbors found the body.

Two and a woman, said to have been with Selzer, were arrested. They are said to have given police the name of a man who is alleged to have kicked him.

To the Voters of Allen County:--

In politics as well as in business, a man can and should be honest. A public office is a public trust. If a man will lie to the people to obtain an office, what can be expected of him when in office. I am endeavoring to conduct my campaign for Clerk of Courts along honorable lines, and if I am honored with the nomination and election I will show my appreciation by giving you my very best efforts when in office.

The county owes no man a living. If I am not capable of earning my salary, I am not entitled to the office. The county pays for service and the county should have the service for which it pays. The office of Clerk of Courts is one of the most difficult in the court house, and a man without business experience and a working knowledge of double entry bookkeeping could not fully meet the requirements of the office.

Bookkeeping and accounting has been my life work, and if you feel that my experience qualifies me for Clerk of Courts, kindly recommend me to your Democratic friends, and I will appreciate it, assure you.

Very respectfully,

Ira F. Clem

MARKETS

GAINS FOLLOWED BY
DECLINE ON WALL ST

NEW YORK, July 18.—Good gains were made in a number of issues on the stock exchange today, but after the start, traders continued to test the market and declines were quickly in order. Reading started half higher at 97 3/4 but later lost the improvement. Willys Overland gained nearly a point to 60, followed by a decline to 59. Crucible Steel, Mexican Petroleum, Alcohol and many other issues after starting about 1/2 point higher, lost all their gains and at the end of the first 15 minutes sold fractionally under Monday's close. American Tobacco continued its upward movement, advancing 3/4 points to 22 3/4. Movements in the copper group were irregular, Kennecott opening unchanged at 45 1/2, while Utah started 1/2 point lower at 75 1/2 and Anaconda, after opening at 75 1/2, receded against 79 against 78 1/2 at the close Monday. Inspiration gained 1/2 to 45 1/2 and Butte and Superior 1/2 to 65 1/2.

The tone in the late forenoon was better than at any time since the bear drive. Trading was almost wholly professional. Gains ranging from fractions to around 2 points were recorded in American Can, Industrial Alcohol, Studebaker, Crucible, Mexican Petroleum and many other issues. Tennessee Copper, however, lost 1/2 to 25 1/2. American Tobacco continued to advance, selling up to 22 3/4 against 20 1/2 a week ago. Later, however, selling by professionals caused recedings of about a point in a number of stocks. Money loaning at 2 1/2 per cent.

POSTMASTERS GATHER;
WILSON TO GIVE PARTY

WASHINGTON, July 18.—More than 1,200 postmasters from all over the country are here today attending the opening session of the convention of the National Association of Postmasters of the United States. The "business of postmastering" is being discussed from many angles. The convention is facing many important postal problems because of changed conditions within the past two years and a large part of the three-day session is to be given to serious work.

The president of the convention, Postmaster Colin M. Seiph of St. Louis, opened the convention at noon today. Postmaster General Burleson and Oliver P. Newman, chairman of the commissioners of the District of Columbia, delivered addresses.

President and Mrs. Wilson have invited the postmasters to attend a garden party to be given in their honor on the White House lawn on Friday afternoon. The president and Mrs. Wilson will be assisted in receiving the postmasters by the Postmaster General and Mrs. Burleson and other cabinet officers and their wives.

The postmasters will attend a banquet at the Raleigh hotel Thursday evening. Among the guests at the banquet will be President Wilson, Vice President Marshall, Champ Clark, speaker of the house of representatives; Senator Bankhead, chairman of the committee on post offices and post roads of the senate; and Representative John A. Moore, chair-

JOHANNESBURG, July 18.—A returned trooper has asserted that the Germans promised the Askaris that all the white women in British East Africa should be given to them as a reward if they assisted the Germans to obtain a victory.

He mentions a German woman who went mad after her husband and brother were killed early in the campaign, and who has since led bands of marauding Askaris. Her illusive and daring tactics have obtained her the sobriquet of "the female De Wet."

AN INSURANCE AGAINST SUDDEN DEATH

For Sufferers From Backache, Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble.

Before an insurance company will take a risk on your life the examining physician will test the urine and report whether you are a good risk. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headache, dizziness, or the twinges and pains of lumbago, rheumatism and gout. The urine is often cloudy, full of sediment; channels often get sore and sleep is disturbed two or three times a night. This is the time you should consult some physician of wide experience—such as Dr. Pierce of the "Invalids' Hotel" and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. Send 10c for large trial package of "Anuric." Write your symptoms and send a sample of urine for test. Experience has taught Dr. Pierce that "Anuric" is a most powerful agent in dissolving uric acid, and he endowed with other properties, for it preserves the kidneys in a healthy condition by thoroughly cleansing them. Being so many times more active than "litbia," "Anuric" clears the blood and filters out those deposits of lime-salts which cause so much pain, and prevents dropsical conditions such as swollen hands or feet and the bag-like appearance under the eyes. "Anuric" is a regular insurance and life-saver for all big meat eaters and those who deposit lime-salts in their joints. Ask the druggist for "Anuric" put up by Dr. Pierce, in 50-cent packages, or send $1.00 to Dr. Pierce for full treatment by mail.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for the liver and bowels have been favorably known for nearly 50 years.

LETTER WRITERS
ANNOY FUNSTON

Poetry, Advice and Appeals
Come in by the Basketful Daily.

SAN ANTONIO, July 18.—To have one's name in every edition of every newspaper in the country every day may be pleasing to politicians, but it has its drawbacks for an army man, a rough and ready soldier to whom the attentions of the public mean nothing. Major General Frederick Funston, commanding the southern division, United States army, and "the man of the hour" in the Mexican situation, has found that out for himself. Today the general installed a secretary and scorned to open his own mail.

"I've got into the great men's class now," he said. "The true mark of greatness, you know, is not to open your own mail, not even the letters marked 'personal' and 'private' and 'important.' Its all very fine to be in the public eye if you are a politician or an actor but it's a darned nuisance if you are a hard-working laboring man."

The fact was that the general had a kick coming. Letters, most of them of no importance, come to him from every part of the United States. His daily post budget has increased until it now fills a bushel basket each mail delivery. Orange, sentimentalists, poets and postesses, and all sorts of people write to General Funston. Some write parodies to fit Mexico on "It's a Long Way to Tipperary". Others sing the praises of the Kansas, Missouri, Utah or Indiana "boys".

Mothers, wives, sweethearts want the general to get sons, husbands, lovers out of the army. "Vox Populi", "Pro Bono Publico" and "E Pluribus Unum" offers reams of advice on how to clean up the border in a hurry, how to prevent banditry, the best way to kill a Mexican.

Such letters are wasted on a military man. Popularly, publicity and public clamor can do nothing for an army man. They cannot promote him or raise his salary.

IF YOU WANT QUICK RELIEF.
Men and women who feel their health failing because of weak, over-worked or disordered kidneys will be pleased to know that Foley Kidney Pills are prompt in action and give quick results in the relief of rheumatism, sore muscles, aching joints, backache, pains in side, and sleep disturbing bladder troubles. PROHIBITIONISTS MAY
COMBINE WITH REFORM
ELEMENTS FOR NEW PARTY

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 17.—A new political party may be born in this city this week. It will be an outgrowth of the old Prohibition party but will be more inclusive, embracing many other of the reform elements of the nation.

The regular Prohibition national convention will begin here Wednesday. On Tuesday there will be a meeting of Prohibitionists and reformers of many other kinds who will try to arrive at an agreement for merging their forces and laying out an attractive program which will land a reform candidate in the White House.

The meeting has been called by leaders of the Prohibition party and members of the committee of sixty which made an unsuccessful attempt to get a Prohibition declaration in the platforms of the Republican and Democratic parties.

Fifteen thousand prominent men and women, of all political faiths, including governors of states, ex-governors, congressmen, bishops, clergymen, bankers, leaders in civil movements, suffragists, educators and labor leaders will attend the meeting.

The meeting will discuss whether a new third party should be formed to obtain prohibition and other reforms, and the possibility of securing action through the various parties now in existence.

This meeting may change the complexion of the Prohibition convention which starts the next day. The convention is scheduled to last three days.

Virgil G. Hinshaw, national chairman, will call the convention to order at ten o'clock Wednesday morning. Following the invocation, the official call will be read by the secretary of the national committee, Mrs. Frances E. Beauchamp of Kentucky. Convention committees will then be elected by the state delegations, after which the temporary chairman, Daniel A. Poling, will deliver the keynote address.

Mr. Poling, whose home is in Boston, is thirty-five years old and famous for his forensic ability. He roused the recent convention of the Christian Endeavors in Los Angeles to such enthusiasm that more than 13,000 persons rose and pledged themselves to vote for federal prohibition. He is chairman of the executive committee of the committee of sixty organized by Professor Irving Fisher of Yale to attempt to have prohibition planks inserted in the platforms of the two leading political parties. It is known that Mr. Poling will advocate retention of the Philippines in his address.

Following Mr. Poling, Mayor V. G.

Irvin of St. Paul, W. G. Calderwood of Minnesota, representing the Prohibitionists of the state, and F. W. Emerson, of California will speak.

Wednesday evening William Sulzer, deposed as governor of New York, will deliver an address.

Thursday forenoon the national committee will be elected and the committee on platform and resolutions will report. In the evening there will be a big pageant and parade.

On Friday the platform will be adopted and candidates for president and vice president will be nominated. In the evening the candidates for president and vice president will speak. The former will be introduced by Aaron S. Watkins, Prohibition candidate for vice president in 1908 and 1912, and the latter by Eugene W. Chaffin, candidate for president on the dry ticket in 1908 and 1912.

Conferences to complete the permanent organizations of the Woman's National Prohibition Federation and to inaugurate plans for special efforts during the campaign among the four million women now having the vote in the United States will be held each morning before the opening of the convention. A representative of the National Woman's Party will also address the convention.

Women will be much more prominent in the doings of the Prohibition party than they were in those of the two dominant parties this year. More than a hundred women delegates have been elected and many of the prominent state and national officers of the party are women.

The suffragists will make special efforts to have the convention endorse the proposed Susan B. Anthony amendment to the federal constitution and to have candidates for president and vice president selected who will support a women's program. They have also interrelated candidates for the nomination concerning their stand respecting child labor, the federal children's bureau, peace, preparedness, world disarmament and legislation to provide a living wage and otherwise protect the laboring classes.

The delegates to the convention will number 1,254. They will choose a candidate for president from the following:

William Sulzer, of New York; J. Frank Hanley, of Indiana; Eugene N. Foss, of Boston, Mass.; Sumner W. Haynes, of Portland, Ind.; Francis E. Baldwin, of Elmira, N. Y.; William D. F. Ferguson, of Franklin, Pa.; Frederick F. Wheeler, of

Los Angeles, Cal.

Mr. Sulzer was impeached as governor of New York at the instigation of Tammany Hall and after a notable trial was ousted from office. He has served many terms in congress.

Mr. Hanley was formerly governor of Indiana and Mr. Foss formerly governor of Massachusetts.

Mr. Haynes has run for mayor of Portland, Ind., district prosecutor, judge of the circuit, appellate and supreme courts, state attorney general, congressman, United States senator and governor, all on the Prohibition ticket; but despite his long and arduous labors as a candidate has never held public office. He is a brother of Elwood Haynes of Kokomo, Ind., who according to some accounts invented the automobile.

Mr. Baldwin is the largest bottle manufacturer in the world, but he says that none of his bottles are used to shelter the demon alcohol.

Mr. Ferguson is the editor of a Prohibition magazine and a famous archaeologist. He is a militant American.

Several years ago he was touring South America. He entered a crowded theater one hot night in a metropolis near the Tropic of Cancer. A woman was singing the songs of the different nations. When she mentioned the United States the audience howled and jeered. The woman purposely garbled "The Stars and Stripes," sang it discordantly and trailed the American colors underfoot.

Ferguson arose, stalked down the aisle, mounted the stage, pulled a revolver from his hip pocket and forced the woman to sing and walk straight. He got away with a whole skin, too.

Mr. Wheeler has a long record as a banker, business man and reformer. He has run many times for office on the Prohibition ticket, with the cheerful knowledge of having not the ghost of a chance when characterizes all candidates of this party.
